GUIDE TO POLK COUNTY

Welcome to Polk County – the heart of Central Florida!

With a history that stretches back 12,000 years, our heritage is both rich and diverse. From the Paleo-Indians who first set foot on the Florida peninsula, to the intrepid pioneers who founded the cities we know today, many people have made their mark.

The Polk County History Center is a great place to begin your journey through time. Located in the Old Polk County Courthouse in downtown Bartow, the History Center has been enriching Polk County's future by preserving its past since 1998.

On the front and back cover (From top, left to right)

Bok Tower Gardens, Lake Wales
Homeland Heritage Park, Homeland
Terrace Hotel, Lakeland
Citrus Label in Central Park, Winter Haven
Vintage Courthouse, Bartow
Frank Lloyd Wright Architecture Florida
The Polk Theatre, Lakeland

This guide has been prepared especially for those who want to step into Polk County's rich history. These pages will help you navigate the Polk County Heritage Trail, which explores more than 150 years of Polk County history and culture. Stops include historic homes, vintage hotels, museums and much more. From Frank Lloyd Wright to Civil War battles, there are many stories for you to uncover. You can devote one day or several days to the Heritage Trail, and the sites listed in this brochure are an excellent place to start. Visit www.polkhistorycenter.org to find additional recommendations.

The Polk County Story

Incentivized by the Armed Occupation Act, pioneers began moving farther south into Florida in 1842. An 1849 hurricane in Hillsborough County and the allure of Polk County's open grazing land pushed cattlemen and settlers alike into the center of the state. As immigration increased, the new Floridians established small farms, orange groves, one-room schools and churches. In 1861, Polk County (named in honor of former President James K. Polk) was signed into legislation.

In 1884, Henry B. Plant brought the South Florida Railroad through Polk County from Sanford to Tampa, generating explosive growth. Towns like Lakeland, Auburndale, Lake Alfred and Winter Haven rapidly developed along the new railroad. When the first commercial shipment of phosphate left the area in 1888, a new industry was born. By 1910, the population had reached more than 37,000. Shortly thereafter, paved roads and beautiful homes replaced the small log shacks that had characterized the early towns and villages. By the 1950s, Polk County had become the heart of Florida's politics and economy.

Historic Roots

Appropriately, the History Center has an interesting history of its own. The "Vintage Courthouse" in Bartow is actually the third in a line of county courthouses built on this land, which was donated by cattle baron Jacob Summerlin in 1867. Polk County's third courthouse was built in 1908 and used until 1987, when construction was completed on the county courthouse currently in use.

Polk Theatre, Lakeland

On September 9, 1989, the 1908 courthouse was added to the National Register of Historic Places. After 10 years and $3 million in renovations, it reopened as the Polk County History Museum. Today, the History Center includes the museum, featuring both permanent and rotating exhibits, as well as the Historical and Genealogical Library – one of the largest collections of its kind in the southeastern United States.

Happy Trails!

We hope you enjoy the Polk County Heritage Trail. If you have any questions, the staff at the Polk County History Center will be happy to assist you.
